

Mount Allison University is a leader in providing quality liberal education to undergraduate students in arts, sciences, commerce, fine arts and music. About Mount Allison...

When you first arrive at Mount Allison, you know this University is special. The charming campus tells a tale of rich history that has unfolded since the University was founded in 1839. Mount Allison is committed to the creation and dissemination of knowledge in a community of higher learning, centered on undergraduate students, in an intimate and harmonious environment. Our teaching, research and creative enterprise are combined with extracurricular activities, in a liberal education tradition, that emphasizes development of the whole person. This integrated approach involves collaborative efforts among all members of the University community and leads to superior scholarship, cultural understanding and appreciation, personal and social maturation, leadership development and informed citizenship.

Our students agree that Mount Allison is more than a university...it's a way of life. If there is one common thread to Mount Allison students, it is their academic strength and their propensity for leadership. Mount Allison has produced 45 Rhodes Scholars, and many graduates have become preeminent in their endeavours.

These achievements are made possible through a faculty and staff that are talented and dedicated. "Mount Allison has an outstanding reputation for seizing opportunities and rising to challenges. This is in part because of the teamwork and collaborative efforts seen across campus and the greater Allisonian community on behalf of our faculty and staff. I am pleased to be a part of this team that works to provide an enriched educational experience both in and outside the classroom." (Dr. Kenneth L. Ozmon, Mount Allison University President and Vice Chancellor)
